There are only two or three human stories, and they go on repeating themselves as fiercely as if they had never happened before.

—WILLA CATHER (1873–1947)
American writer

Monday 2/10/14 8:15

Day 4

I hate the waiting. I called the U Neurosurgery clinic at 7:30 but now wait for a call back regarding an appt. I slept a little better last night so feeling okay right now, just anxious.

5:10 Still no word from the U. I did hear from Dr. Crawfords office about scheduling surgery at St. Josephs. I went ahead and accepted the date of Feb 24th with them knowing I may cancel. But they wanted to make sure I had a date scheduled. So hopefully I'll hear back from the U tomorrow and can make a decision about this.

I'm starting to get headaches, not terrible yet, but noticable and my other symptoms seem to be progressing.

Mike and I took the MRI CD and summary report over to the U and of course read the report. not good as we already knew.