Tuesday Sept 2, 2014

Well just as I had anticipated, it was a very fun, action packed weekend. Friday Mike returned from his retreat. It was so good to see him. We went out to dinner with the Vertrees to the Matador. They brought a nice New Mexico care package with them filled with NM products. So thoughtful. Sat. morning we took a bike ride out to Golden and up Lookout Mt. It was a beautiful morning and a great ride. I think Janet was happy to check it off her bucket list. She seemed nervous about tackling it, but of course had no trouble getting to the summit. We asked another cyclist to take our picture in front of the Buffalo Bill Grave sign to prove we all made it.

When we got home Lukas, Kristin and Millie Nashville were already here. I can't explain the absolute joy I feel whenever I see Lukas. A and Kristin seem very happy which is wonderful to observe. Both Mike and I think the world of Kristin and would be very pleased if their relationship continues to grow, I don't think either is interested in marriage yet, but I will be totally in favor of it whenever it happens - if it happens.

Sat afternoon we went to the Chihuli exhibit at the Botanic Gardens. Seeing the amazing blown glass sculptures blending in with the flowers and other plants was really quite a sight. I'm so glad we got the chance to see it.

We came back to the house and I made dinner. What a wonderful day this was. I did feel very tired midway through the Botanic Garden tour but was having too much fun to stop.